

```
In [1]: t=()
        print(t)
        print(type(t))

        ()
        <class 'tuple'>
```

```
In [2]: t1=('vk','akash','vicky')
        print(t1)

        ('vk', 'akash', 'vicky')
```

```
In [3]: print(t1[2])

        vicky
```

```
In [4]: t1[1]='deepak'
```

```
-----
TypeError                                Traceback (most recent call last)
~\AppData\Local\Temp\ipykernel_2456\1007366846.py in <module>
----> 1 t1[1]='deepak'

TypeError: 'tuple' object does not support item assignment
```

```
In [5]: t2=(10)
        t3=(10,)
        print(type(t2))
        print(type(t3))

        <class 'int'>
        <class 'tuple'>
```

```
In [6]: t4=tuple(('100','vasanth','kumar'))
        print(t4)
        print(type(t4))

        ('100', 'vasanth', 'kumar')
        <class 'tuple'>
```

```
In [ ]:
```